5th February: Understanding Cognition in Adults. Abi Price of Newcastle University is giving us the chance to get a sneak preview of some of the world-leading science going on here on Tyneside - she talks about her ongoing research into memory and thinking in the human brain.

12th February: Road, Wall and Rail: the Newcastle to Carlisle Crossing. Local historian Margaret Boxic talks about the various ways of crossing the Tyne Gap from Newcastle to Carlisle - including the abortive canal proposal, which is one of northern history's great might-have-beens.

Gardens competition organiser: In recent years a valued part of the Jesmond Community Festival has been a Gardens Competition, aimed not so much at private gardens but at improving the street scene for walkers and local residents. The Festival are looking to recruit 2 or 3 new competition organisers who could help firm up the criteria for this year's event and "judge" entries to the competition. It isn't essential that you are a keen gardener yourself, just someone who enjoys looking at other people's gardens as you walk by. If you are interested or want to know more, contact Chris Clarke on chrisclarkenewbrough@gmail.com.

A Window into Quiet Kindness: The Chemist's Window in Newcastle Cathedral has been named a finalist in a national competition to find the country's favourite C of E cathedral window. It is one of the final 12 in this campaign run by the Association of English Cathedrals, inspired by the book Divine Light by Janet Gough OBE. To vote for the window and have a chance to win a copy of the book, go to the following link: tinyurl.com/Chemist Window inequalities and working across professions and specialties. The event is hybrid, virtually by Teams or in-person at Newcastle University.

The CNE Families' Unit would especially appreciate baby wipes and antibacterial wipes as well as nappies of all sizes (not too many newborn).
